1. Commitment to Accessibility

We strive to design and maintain our website in accordance with recognized accessibility principles.

Our goal is to follow the standards and guidelines outlined in the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines WCAG version two point one to the extent reasonably possible for our size and the nature of our services.

2. Measures We Take to Support Accessibility

To promote accessibility we apply the following practices.

Consistent layout and navigation structure

Text alternatives for important non textual content

Readable font sizes and scalable text

Clear color contrast across the website

Keyboard navigable menus where feasible

Clean code structure that supports assistive technologies

Avoidance of flashing or harmful visual elements

Logical section grouping and headings

3. Ongoing Improvements

Accessibility is an ongoing commitment.

As we update the website or introduce new content we continuously review elements that may affect users with disabilities.

We aim to correct issues promptly when they are identified.

4. Compatibility With Assistive Technology

The website is designed to be compatible with common assistive tools such as screen readers browser accessibility extensions and operating system accessibility features. We cannot guarantee perfect compatibility with all possible technologies but we aim for broad usability across major platforms.

5. Known Limitations

Despite our best efforts some parts of the website may not be fully optimized for accessibility due to technical constraints third party integrations or limitations of certain legacy systems.

We encourage visitors to notify us of any issue to help us improve.

6. Third Party Content

Some content or tools provided by external platforms or embedded services may not fully meet accessibility standards.

While we cannot control the accessibility of third party systems we choose providers that offer reasonable accessibility practices whenever possible.
